POETRY

When I get a brand new hoirdo,
And a new pair of shoes and a bag,
I float in the air like the clouds do,
I enjoy being a fag.

Dean's message:
"Hello down there."

Books

"The Hippie's Handbook"

—How to Live on Love
Written by Ruth Bronsteen, published September 1967,
by Canyon Book Company,
New York.

We here at Trawna Life were very impressed by this neat and complete little book, billed as "the first and only complete guide to the underground today."

The book is divided into 3 parts: Viz-Tuning in, Turning on, and Dropping out, and is full of interesting information about the hippy, one of the predominant phenomenon of the Sixties. There is a dictionary of Hippy terms (did you realize that OWSLEY refers to "the Rolls-Royce LSD capsule; named after its inventor, Augustus Owsley Stanley III" -or that "Zonked Out" is "completely tripped") also of underground newspaper and movies. Yes, Trawna's own "Satyrday" is even included. There are detailed instructions on preparing various "electric" substances, such as Mellow Yellow, Lettuce, Hydrangea, Periwinkle Leaves, and Superpot.

If you have a bad trip, according to the Hippies Handbook, you might try Frenquel, Niacinamide, Niacin, or call the Meditation Centre in New York - 989-9289, for solace.

In Part Three; "Dropping Out" details the cheapest ways to live ("don't wear underwear,"), "How to cope with the fuzz", and offer Helpful Hints, like "There is an awful lot of clap loose these days; and rubbers are a drag, but the clap is something else again. Make it an iron-clad rule: Rubbers With Strangers."

In summation, Trawna Life can only agree with the author:

"hare krishna hare kishi-hna krishna krishna hare hare hare rama hare rama rama rama hare hare".

ROUND TOWN

Mary Worthless

Well, dearies, here it is, time again for a wee report on the marvie happenings of the past week or so. All sorts of gay things have been going on in Toronto in the past little while and I'm sure you'll want to hear what all the top people have been doing with their time and money.

At the Ribberboat last week we were graced with the appearance of young Ritchie Havens, a sparkling up and coming talent of rare form. He performs darling little blues numbers to packed audience wherever he goes and this week was no exception. Miss Janet Davidson, daughter of wealthy tea magnate J.R. L.L. Davidson was seen amid the crowd, escorted by some ravishingly good looking fellow sporting that fashionable long-length hair style and simply divine little no-rim glasses. He was really quite the mystery man.

Mr. Havens, himself, was dressed in a fetching black sequined outfit and long strands and hand made Mexican beads. (He admits they were strung by real Mexicans.) He really puts on a show for the people in the audience, not only in song but also through his anecdotes between numbers. A very capable artist, we hope to see him again in our fair city.

Another major event was the coming of the Paul Butterfield Blues Band ... en masse. They thrilled an almost full house at Massey Hall on Thursday Night with their clever little improvisations. Afterwards there was a first-nighters party at Hilde Rozzani's, daughter of prominent Mafia leader Mario Rozzani and their stately east end mansion. Hilde came with one of her father's hand picked escorts and an appointed bodyguard. Everyone had a lovely time.

Looking ahead a bit we are all waiting with breathless anticipations for Skule Nite, which again promises to be an evening full of fun and amusement. Mayor Denison will be there and many other fascinating dignitaries. I'll be wearing my little blue sequined gown but dress is optional.

Well, dearies, I think that about rounds it up for 'Round the Town', if you'll excuse the slight pun, ha ha. Till next time then ... toodle-oo!

How many of you Engineers know what that word implies? It's a sad fact that many Skulemen have let this lack of knowledge spoil their chance for a week's escapade to North Carolina University. Tarheel is the common name for this school. Each year SAC holds interviews to determine 30 lucky individuals who will go there for cultural, intellectual, and social intercourse. It's particularly attractive since the 30 people are represented 50:50 by both sexes. Tarheelers then come to Varsity later in the year.

However, this year the exchange is profiting considerably and promises to be more of a ball than ever. More than 25% of the male sex is represented by Engineers. Presently enjoying the southern accents of North Carolina chicks are Skulemen: Bill Powlesland (IV Mech), Richard Saks, Dave Snowball (IV Ind.) and Felix Ernst (IV Civil).

THE PRESIDENT REPORTS

JOHN MORRIS

Since our last meeting a lot has happened.

One of the most important has been a couple of meetings of the Student Staff Committee which is presently in the throes of a discussion of first year (curriculum, administration, guidance, etc.). The Committee has elected an executive consisting of Andy Wagsban (III-Sci) and Prof. Robertson (of the Elect. Dept.). The Dean and I flipped a quarter and this decided that for this year the staff member would be chairman, the student secretary (roles will be reversed next year). Other members of the Committee are staff members B. Bernholtz, F. C. Hooper, M. Wayman, F. A. DeLong, G. B. Craig, and students G. Wright, A. Phillips, H. Sagmuir (all IV-IND), A. Orav (IV-CHEM). Contact any or all of these people if you have a suggestion, question or beef about the life of this community (academic or not).

Upcoming are the Cannonball (Dec. 1) and Open House which this year, under the fearless leadership of Felix Ernst could be a real knockout. See your class reps and club chairmen for more gen.

A special note to class reps: Particularly during the busy fall term—check your mail slot frequently. You are responsible for seeing that your class is informed.

Congratulations to all of us. Skule, as usual, came out at the top of the list in the Share campaign and bled well.

And as a closing note, any comments concerning Engineering or other University elements are welcomed. Can't speak on your behalf if we don't know how you feel. Address mail to The President, U of T Engineering Society or drop it into the 'Stores.

POST SCRIPT: The Society has undertaken a study of the Engineering Stores (purposes and operations). We have returned H. W. Jackman, a lecturer in the Industrial Eng. as consultant on a management, oriented study of the Stores. Your thoughts on this matter would be appreciated.

PHOTOS ARE FINE, WATCH THE TRIPOD!

Wife: Well, it's come dear, our 5th Anniversary and no children; if only I'd known that they'd pass a law like that.

Husband: Yes, there's no way around it either. I've read and re-read it, and you can't make it any different. There it is, in view of the fact of the falling birth rate, it is compulsory for married couples to have at least one child within five years of marriage. Failure to comply with the Act will entail the services of a Government agent being called to assist.

Wife: Oh dear, I suppose the man from the Ministry of Birth will be here today.

Husband: I suppose so. Well, I'd better be off to work. (Exit husband).

(Later, knock at door, wife answers the door).

Wife: Oh! I suppose you are the man from the ... (Enter Man).

Man: Good morning. I've come to ...

Wife: Yes, I know. Will you excuse me for a moment?

Man: (To himself) I suppose this is right address, I don't see why these proud mothers can't bring their babies to the studio to be photographed. Still, she seems to be expecting me, so I suppose it's okay.

Wife: (Coming back) Won't you sit down, Mr. ...?

Man: "Jones" is the name. I suppose your husband is agreeable to this?

Wife: Yes, we both think it's the best thing to do, considering he can't do it.

Man: Yes, a professional touch is really necessary for perfect results. Well, I might as well get busy. Might I suggest two on the sofa, one on the mat, one in the bath and one in the bed?

Wife: Good heavens, I didn't think so many would be necessary!

Man: Well, madam, the best of us can't get a good one every time, but one out of five is bound to take.

Wife: Forgive me, but it does seem a little informal doesn't it?

Man: The charm of the thing is the informality. Would you like to see some examples of my work. (Produces pictures). Now, look at this baby; took me four hours to get him, but isn't he a beauty?

Wife: Yes, a lovely child, to be sure.

Man: And look at this one. This was a tough assignment, done on top of a bus, and in one shot.

Wife: Good heavens. And on top of a bus.

Man: Yes, it's really not difficult after some practise, and I do get a kick out of my work you know. Now, here is one I did in the Bay.

Wife: The Bay ... well, that does seem a little public.

Man: Yes, but the mother was a film actress and wanted the publicity. Now, this other one was my assignment (shows photo). I did this job in High Park one snowy afternoon; took me from 2 o'clock to 5.

Worst conditions I've ever worked under.

Wife: (weakly) High Park! My God, and twins!

Man: Yes, it was some job. People were crowding around me 4 and 5 deep to get a look at me on the job.

Wife: Oh-Oh-Oh-Oh ...

Man: Yes, I could never have finished it but for the assistance of two cops.

If it had not been for the squirrels nibbling my equipment, I could have had an other shot. Now then, will you help me get my tripod erected?

Wife: (weakly) Tri ... tri ... tripod????

Man: Sure, I use a three-foot stand for ... my God, she's fainted!

ELECTRICAL CLUB NEWS

December 15th, between 11:30 p.m. and 2:00 a.m., the Varsity Arena has been reserved for the first of two Hockey Tournaments that will be held this year. A Staff team, plus one from each year will meet then to get rid of a few frustrations and the odd drop of blood. If you know the difference between a puck and the "intercourse competition" at the Cannonball, then sign up now, with your class rep, for your team.

The Annual Engineering Car Rally, Sponsored by the Electrical Club, is scheduled for the third week in January. Your help is needed now to organize and advertise this event, please contact your reps for further details.

In the wee small hours of last Saturday morning a police officer encountered Hino Garamya strolling along St. George St.

The ossifer, being a particularly perceptive fellow, immediately noticed that Hino was wearing the top half of his pajamas and nothing else.

"Why are you wearing the top half of your pajamas and nothing else?" inquired the constable.

"It's my wife's idea," replied Hino, "The other day I walked over to the drugstore without a scarf and got a stiff neck!"

LETTRE OUVERTE AU REDACTEUR

Anglais! Encore une fois els Français du Québec viennent envahir votre ville, Toronto la pure, dans le but très simple de vous enseigner les délices préconiser par Barchus et Venus.

Les Etudiants de Polytechnique, conscients de leur supériorité dans le domaine de l'amour ainsi que de leur capacité d'absorption de boissons alcoolisées, désirent que l'année 1967-1968, serait consacrée au "dénasage" des étudiants de l'Université de Toronto.

L'amour sera le thème principal. En effet, les gens de Polytechnique ont constaté que les Torontois, fortendement influencés par la mentalité puriste des Britanniques, s'y prennent mal en amour.

En premier lieu, l'amour doit se faire avec grace, en passant du baiser à l'attouchement, au deshabillage graduel pour se terminer enfin dans l'union totale des deux corps en tenant compte du principe de Newton "A toute action correspond une réaction." En plus l'amour doit se faire en pleine lumière, et pas dans l'obscurité totale, comme le préconise les puritains.

En second lieu, tout ingénieur doit savoir manier les boissons alcoolisées. Les étudiants en génie de l'Université de Toronto pourront donc compléter leur formation de la suite de l'exhibition donnée gratuitement par les Polytechniciens dans le maniement de la bière, Rye, Vodka, etc. ...

Enfin, ces mêmes Polytechniciens expliqueront l'utilité des pellicules anticonceptionnelles, des préservatifs pour raison de santé et de la méthode du thermomètre.

Nous espérons qu'à la suite de cette fin de semaine, les étudiants en génie de l'U. de T. deviendront enfin dignes du titre d'ingénieur canadien.

GOOD EATING IN TRAWNA

GRANDMA GREEN'S GOURMET GOODIES

This column is dedicated to those poor unfortunates who happen to be dating a nice piece that needs a little encouragement to leave her inhibitions at the door but doesn't drink the bubbly. There's more than one way to serve the sauce.

The recipe for this Month's Hustle is:
VIRGINE SALMONE SUR LE LIT

- 1 12 oz can Salmon (or any other fish you'd like to spike)
- 3 tablespoons onions (chopped)
- 4 oz butter
- 1 cup hot milk
- 2 tablespoons sifted flour (not syphilic - sifted)
- 1 double shot of your favourite
- 1 12 oz btl. of white wine (extra dry)
- 2 oz Brandy
- 1 tsp oregano leaves
- salt and pepper to taste.

Take the double shot of your favourite, then you won't mind sauteing the onions in the butter 'til they are clear (2 minutes). Add the flour and stir until blended. Add milk and brandy then salmon and spices. Stir in wine and simmer for 5 minutes. Then bake for 20 minutes in cassarole dish in preheated oven at 350°.

Believe granny when she says: "This is the taste I've been missing!" One small serving is equivalent to four drinks, (so give her a double serving, and take one yourself). To finish off serve on a bed of creamed potatoes or rice. A good wine to serve with this meal is Leibfraumilach (that's German for Lady's Milk - really!).

If this doesn't work with your piece, send her name, phone number and picture (nude if possible!) — grandma likes a challenge every now and then. Remember: The way to the bedroom is through the kitchen. Next month: Bawdy dessert ideas.

CIGARETTES CAUSE CAMELS

One cool Matinee, Peter Jackson drove to Buckingham in his Belvedere.

He picked up his Sweet Caporal and they went to visit his Rembrandt and du Maurier families.

Then he drove her home like a good Sportsman.

It was near the Old Port and she had room No. 7. They went inside and sat on the Chesterfield.

After a few minutes, he put his hand on her carton and began to play with her Cameo.

She got scared and said if he didn't stop she would call the British Consulate and they might Export him, but then he displayed his King Size Cork Tip and she shouted, "Mark Ten!"

She twisted like a Black Cat and felt like a Winston. If she doesn't look like a Camel in nine months it would be a Lucky Strike for the Players.

PLUSH SEAT RESERVED IN W. C.

A polite old lady had just bought a small house in the country from a real estate agent.

However, upon thinking about the matter for some time, she noticed that there did not seem to be a W.C. (water closet) in or near the house.

She wrote to the agent to check on it, shortly thereafter receiving the following reply from the agent, who thought W.C. meant West-leyen Chapel:
Dear Madam,

I have great pleasure in informing you that the W.C. is situated nine miles from the house in the centre of a beautiful grove of pine trees. It is open now on Sundays and is capable of holding about two hundred and fifty people.

This is unfortunate for you if you are in the habit of going regularly, but no doubt you will be glad to know that a good many people take their lunch and make a day of it.

I remember the happy day my daughter was married in the W.C., there was a rush for seats, and it was wonderful to watch the expressions on some of the faces.

I should specially like to recommend your ladyship to pay a visit Tuesday as there is an organ accompanist.

A wealthy resident of the district installed a bell which rings every time a person enters.

A bazaar is to be held to furnish the seats with plush cushioning as some of the people feel it is a long wait during the courses of the proceedings.

My wife is rather delicate, so she cannot attend regularly—it was six years since she last went—it pains her not to be able to go more often.

I shall be delighted to reserve a seat for you.

THE GRAD'S: This year again, Louie's has proven a big favourite with the theatre crowd. Tasteful decor and superb food draw Trawna's leal sophisticates. Ask for a "Hamburger Special" — a real gourmet treat.

THE 'PIG': Although primarily a sophisticated drinking spot, the Trawna swinging set goes for the 'Pig' pickled eggs in a big way. Another favorite with those in the know is "Humpty-Dumpty potato chips".

THE REFLECTORY: A truly related eating place, the reflectory is a strong favorite of Granite Club Members. Featuring a lavish selection of rare sandwiches and exotic jelly donuts, the patrons of this well-lit establishment grace their tables with real plastic cutlery. This imaginative touch is a credit to the proprietors Pierre LePan and beautiful Hersh LaMerde (of open-heart surgery fame). Try their famous ice cream sandwiches, ice cold from the vending machine.

THE GALBRAITH COMMON ROOM: This spot is particularly popular for sophisticated Trawntonians who enjoy dining out at the luncheon hour. Featuring Fanto Orange this week, the 'Room' should be spectacularly crowded, particularly at the noon hour, this year.

3rd HISTORY CLASS: A really intellectual eating place—this spot is authentically decorated to look like Room 102 of the Mechanical Building. An informal luncheon favorite, the 'Class' features entertainment all for free. A real bargain.

For a really exotic luncheon in simple surroundings, try the lovely new cafeteria in the Press building.

Place: Bull and the Bear Pub — Sutton Place

(Enter from Wellesley St.)

Hours: Weekdays 12-1; Saturday 12-11:30.

This pub opened 4 months ago and we think it is one of the nicer places for a drink in town. The interior is tastefully decorated in dark oak, and green felt. The walls are lined with pictures of Vintages to give a rich atmosphere of the roaring twenties with a blush of an English pub. The tables are of a comfortable size not the typical beer stand and the chairs comfortable, armed and of plush black leather. We especially noticed the clean tables and the lack of the stale beer and smoke smell. The washrooms are a comfortable distance from the tables and readily visible drunk or sober (we know from experience). The lights are subdued and the music (conned) soft-perfect to drink and F.I.B. — moderation. This is not the place for boisterous mirth but rather mellow congeniality. The crowd seems to be young, however we should note, Saturday night is usually coupled. This is definitely the place to take the high-priced spread.

Prices: pint of beer .45 - .50 (no draft)

I.B.M. 1710 BURNS OUT

S.A.C. BUDGET TOO MUCH

The I. B. M. 1710 computer, pride and joy of many an engineer, expired last night after attempting to decipher the S.A.C. budget. It all began when two special investigators with sticky fingers latched onto a copy of the 19-page S.A.C. budget (Get one for yourself and keep it in your bathroom), and fed in the facts and figures. The computer was asked to indicate, by means of its logic circuits, a logical response.

Income — student fees — $150,920.00.

The 1710 gurgled with delight, and blinked its lights psychedelically. "Money, Money, Money" it printed "How Can We Spend it". The answer came as the data was recorded. Administrative and Office Salaries $37,600. "Ouch" was the reply. executive and Council expenses $10,665. "Nice expense account". Office supplies, general printing, building maintenance, etc. $19,550. "An awful lot of paper and stamps — who could they be writing to?" A little flustered, the computer moved on to the next item. Grants and donations to organizations and clubs $3,500. The computer was puzzled "Whose campus organizations?" Grant to Varsity $7,000.00. "Expensive toilet paper — how about Delsey?" Random magazine expense $3,650.00. "Randomly published and more randomly distributed and read" was the observation. Catalyst Magazine expenses $1300. "Haven't seen a copy yet". W.U.S. committee expenses, excluding Treasure Van and Share $3,200. At this point, the arithmetic check light turned on, and a slight wisp of smoke could be perceived arising from the core memory. C.U.S. and O.U.S. fees and conference expenses $21,580.00. "What does C.U.S. or O.U.S. do for me or the average student?" inquired the computer. It was beginning to get hot. Drama committee expenses $1,725.00. "Oh, such a minority," the computer groaned, "Somebody must have an awful lot of faith in minorities. Somebody is a nice guy".

In the next phase of his program, the 1710 began searching its logic circuits for logical answers to its own logical questions. The print-out is shown below: "Student fees ... good financial basis to do much for student. Very high office expenses, unbeneficial to student. Want to know which campus minorities get 3,500 ... illogical. Varsity not as good toilet paper as Delsey. Random has a low probability. W.U.S. expense account illogical. Convention account very nice for W.U.S. committee members. C.U.S. and O.U.S. $20,000.00 worth of Bachelors. Why should we belong to C.U.S. error 01. C.U.S. and O.U.S. illogical withdrawn from C.U.S. and O.U.S."

At this point the disk drive storage unit lost control and revved up to 14,000 r.p.m. Five seconds later, the disk took leave of the drive and sailed across the room and through the wall. SPS had launched its first U.F.D. The control unit indicator lights raced around in circles; smoke poured from the core storage. The line printer began printing the early edition of the Globe and Mail; our two investigators grabbed the results and headed for cover. At 2:02 A.M., the Toronto Fire Department arrived and put out the computer.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the I.B.M. offices and Remington St. In lieu of flowers the administration has asked that donations be sent to the S.A.C. Abolition Fund, care of the Toike Oike. Any leftover funds will be used to (continued on page 11)

Trawna Life Visits The Home-Of-The-Weak?

HOME-OF-THE-WEAK?

BY R. LENE PERLY

Gothic lines and other stuff characterize this front view of the Artsy Mansion.

Trawna Life is proud to announce that for our Quarter-Monthly Mansion Award, we have unanimously selected this week the multi-roomed estate of Mr. and Mrs. Artsie (and their numerous children). The Artsie's affectionately call their centrally located, sprawling edifice "U.C.", in honour, perhaps, of Upper Canada, The University of Constantinople, or Uncas Chingachgook (the last Mohican).

The building has been in the family for n years, making the walls furniture and general appearance authentically out-of-date. It has a large family room which is comfortably, although sparsely furnished, with randomly placed orange, green, brown, red, blue, and black furniture (clearly to give it that homy, unco-ordinated, lived-in look). It is casually called the Junior Common Room.

The dining room, we felt, was perhaps excessively large, but the clever buffet style and cheerful decor aroused one to contemplate its marvellous potential for large luncheon parties. This room is called the Refectory (from the Latin, refecto refectare, meaning to remake. Apparently the girls there are made again and again.) Delightful music was piped in through an elaborate system.

The Library, containing over 25,000 books, was indeed impressive, and emphasizes the Artsie's commendable interest in old literature. Considering Laidlaw's phenomenal size, however, one tends to wonder if the entire room weren't intended as somewhat of a show-piece. We were most amazed by the absence of bedrooms, however in a home that large, surely some rooms exist (whose function is doubtful), that are sometimes converted for this purpose.

The inner courtyard is just lovely, and the many arches and towers suggest that the mansion belongs in the 19th or some other century. In fact, it actually was built in the 1850's, and, along with this award, we must congratulate U.C. on its Centennial Birthday. All the best in the future, and let it finally be said . . . the Artsies and UC deserve each other.

THE SON OF FRANKENSTEIN

BY ELLEN LEVINE

The Son of Frankenstein is a horror film in name only. Underneath it is an analysis of the intricate workings of the disturbed mind, and is a superb piece of art. The monster depicts the alienated anti-hero, found in most men, who only seeks approval and acceptance in society but is rejected for his primitive needs and responses. Internal conflict is especially conspicuous in the film: there is the conflict of Frankenstein who opposes his father's creation "as a man" but "as a scientist" desires its return to life for study and research purposes, and the monster's own conflict, of trying to reconcile the fact that he is both a scientific object and a man. Violence is also, of course, a major factor, and the film with its surface calm and restraint is analogous to a Wagnerian composition: the violent madness underlying a solemn formal pattern.

The monster, when we first meet him in this film, is sick both physically and mentally. He has been through a great trauma and feels "cold fear." He feels. He loves Igor and obeys him in carrying out his vengeful wishes and feels anguish at his death. However, the monster is neither alive nor dead, just as the broken-necked Igor is neither alive nor dead, but he persists in being. He desires to be human but cannot. He responds to the intuitive fearlessness of the child. He wants to be childlike. His intense disgust on seeing his reflection in the mirror shows that he knows himself to be Absurd and Apart, unreal yet only too real. Is this man's primitive state? His basic essence? As the younger Frankenstein paradoxically states, he was constructed from "the source of life", even though he becomes a source of death and disgrace. He is the "search for truth" which entails "hatred, blasphemy, and condemnation." Is this the truth of man, and of life?

Even the half-dead Igor, the monster's beloved friend and ruler, possesses feeling. He says: "No one can mend my neck. It's alright," yet sees to it that all the members of the jury that condemned him, die for what they did to him. The monster-man's ruler is insane; he is a man-monster.

All three major characters can be interpreted as the content of a brilliant and highly neurotic mind. The monster is the unconscious id, man's baser nature. Igor represents the perverted values of the superego, the monster's distorted conscience and ruler. There is no way out of the intricate traps of the libidinous strivings but the third element: the rational ego, the son of Frankenstein, who murders both the others in a final culmination of repression and relief. The thanatos wish has been resolved internally. The monster has become a memory of a "confused animal", of all of us confused animals, placed upon the earth with no reason or purpose and unable to communicate with each other or ask the reason why. It is indeed a disturbing thought.

Sporting Events

Skule has sprinted out to a quick lead in hockey this season. Both the senior and junior teams are undefeated, posting identical records of one win and one tie. Could it be that this is finally Skule's year for hockey?

Both teams have seen drastic changes in their line-up, listing several rookies on their respective rosters. Many of last year's players were lost to graduation or academic ineligibility or keenness.

Senior Skule trampled PHE-A into the ice with a 2-0 shutout in their season opener. The second game of the seniors saw them forced to settle for a 1-1 tie with Vic I, last year's Jennings' Cup champs, after leading throughout most of the game. Phil Graham and Dave Snowball tallied for the seniors in their first game. Craig Simpson fired the only Skule marker of the other game.

Senior Skule's strength lies up centre and on the blue line. Bill Leonard, Glen "Kamikaze Leader" Katsuyama and Craig Simpson, all veterans of interfac play, form the staunch trio up centre while Paul Sheldon and John Hood combine to make-up the goal-line stand.

The rookies are Phil Graham and Bill Watts, both making the jump up from last year's juniors, and Bob Pender.

Although Junior Skule has been moved up into Division II, they seem to be headed toward a repeat of last season's undefeated performance.

Eight returnees from last year's squad form the core of the team, while the seven new-comers seem to show great potential in filling the open spots. Bob Hutchinson, Brian Story and Bob Craig, three new wingers, have already hit the score sheet in the 3-3 tie with UC I and the 2-1 win over Dents A.

Meanwhile, on the blue line, the defence is led by co-captain Bob Kmiec, with Paul Taylor and Dave "Boomer" Webster. All three defencemen played exceptionally well in the win over Dents A.

However, goalie Bruce Sweet, another hold-over from last year, must get credit for the win over Dents A as he kicked out 32 shots to post the victory.

Junior Skule seems to be so well-balanced and powerful that this year could easily see a Divisino II team in the Jennings' Cup playoff, something that has not happened for a long time. So Senior Skule, watch out!

The above story about the 1710 burning up is purely fictional, but the figures and categories indicated are actually from the S.A.C. budget. Its about time that somebody got burned-up about how S.A.C. is spending our money. If you don't believe the figures here, drop into the S.A.C. office and demand a budget. Its your constitutional right. Try and find out what they are doing with your $8.00 and let us know if you like it.

TRAWNA LIFE stoffers restoge critical play in lost Thursday's interfac hockey game.

SWIMMING

The first of this year's two swim meets is almost upon us (the auspicious event occurs Tuesday November 28) and there is still room for even inexperienced swimmers. Skule's record in the past has been fantastic, (no skill, we win on quantity!), so the tradition win must be upheld this year.

Divers are especially welcome. If you swim butterfly, breaststroke, backstroke or crawl, why the hell haven't you called me?

For information, coaching, or just friendly conversation, call Cliff Gentle, 762-3905.

VOLLEYBALL

The Engineers are again showing their supremacy in the Interfaculty Volleyball League. When asked to comment about Skule's phenomenal success the renowned "Moose" Simanovskis had this comment about the adept hands of the Engineers, "We practice every day".

Under the guiding light of "Moose" the Sr. Skule team has an unblemished record, while the Jrs. are trying to follow in their footsteps.

At this rate, the possibility of winning the championship for the Nth year in a row (where N is a very large number) is almost a certainty.

FOOTBALL

Skulemen rounded a very successful season with a 26-0 romp over SMC. Both offence and defence played well with the defence picking off several passes to set up touchdowns by the offence. John Bielby, Bill Lennard, Tom Loumankis and Bruce Hill tallied for Skule with TD'S. Hill also tallied for 2 converts.

The result was a tie with Vic first place, but the 2-0 "mudbowel" loss to Vic gave them first place.

Vic will meet PHE in the semi-finals while Engineers will meet Meds. With the win over SMC, Skule has finally got its momentum up and should be the favoured team for the Mulock Cup, despite the loss to Vic. This is the year to beat Vic, so come out and support Skule in the final game for the Mulock Cup at Varsity Stadium, Wednesday at 1:00 PM.

BASKETBALL

The Interfaculty Basketball League has just recently gotten underway. This year's league looks very strong and I feel that Skule will have two strong contenders.

The senior team looks particularly strong especially after their exhibition game with Osgoode Hall which they lost by only four points being four points up at the half. The Junior team also has talent but players are still needed to round out the team. Anyone interested should turn out to practices Tuesday and Thursday nights at 7:30 at the Brockton C.I. gym on Brock Ave. just south of Bloor Ave. or contact John Ingle or Steve Overgaard.

Those who would like to play basketball but feel that they cannot qualify for the Interfaculty League should contact John Ingle regarding the Minor League. Get up a class team and call him now.

YOU RIDE FULL TILT INTO TROUBLE JOUSTING WITH A VICIOUS PHIZOPP

1. "The Beast's slashing teeth were only inches from my tilt," writes Roscoe Meoff, a friend of Canadien Club. "Its moist hide scraped my skin (Ahhhh!). Holding on desperately to the slippery phizopps, I wondered how the Tahitian natives made riding look like such fun."

2. "With heavy lance in one hand, and bulky shield in the other, the only way to guide my tilt was with a touch of the knee. Diving down, I tried to snatch the phizopp without getting trampled.
3. "At breakneck speed we closed the gap. Slowly I began to sink. In desperation I aimed my tilt at the beast's phizopps. Fortunately, the Tahitian natives rescued me (and my tilt) from the precarious situation.

4. "Short of breath, and sore of ribs, my friends escorted me to a nearby hotel for their favourite pastime—and mine—Canadien Club. Nothing tastes quite like it. You can stay with it all night. Enjoy Canadien Club tonight and every night.
